On the 2nd of June 2012. Dad and I went to Star Chaser. I had no idea what it was going to be like. Dad and I caught the train into the city. When we got off we walked to the Art Center, the Art Center is a beautiful place.

The main story line is about a girl called Catta, whose parents had just died. Catta and her brother Tommy miss their parents and want to go back in time to see them again. Catta's toy lion starts to grow and tells her that she is a * Star Chaser *!! If she can save planet Atlia, then she will be able to go back in time and see her parents. Sadly Catta can't take Tommy with her on her mission. As Catta travels on her mission she realizes Tommy is getting older very quick!

I don't want to spoil it so I won't tell you the rest!

But I really enjoyed the story line, the acting and the props were great as well! It was also quite a sad story as well as funny and quirky. I would recommend this to ages 7+.
